

MANSLAUGHTER BY REASON OF LOSS OF CONTROL

Triable only on indictment
Maximum: Life imprisonment

Offence range: 3 – 20 years' custody

This is a serious specified offence for the purposes of sections 224 and 225(2) (life sentences for serious offences) of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

This is an offence listed in Part 1 of Schedule 15B for the purposes of section 224A (life sentence for a second listed offence) and section 226A (extended sentence for certain violent or sexual offences) of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

The type of manslaughter (and thereby the appropriate guideline) should have been identified prior to sentence. If there is any dispute or uncertainty about the type of manslaughter that applies the judge should give clear reasons for the basis of sentence.

STEP ONE - Determining the offence category

A conviction for manslaughter by reason of loss of control necessarily means that the killing resulted from the offender’s loss of self-control, which had a qualifying trigger, and a person of the offender’s sex and age, with a normal degree of tolerance and self-restraint and in the circumstances of the offender might have reacted in a similar way to the offender. The qualifying trigger will have been:

- a fear of serious violence from the victim against the offender or another or
- thing(s) said or done which constituted circumstances of an extremely grave character and caused the offender to have a justifiable sense of being wronged or
- a combination of both

CULPABILITY demonstrated by one or more of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The characteristics set out below are indications of the level of culpability that may attach to the offender’s conduct; the court should balance these characteristics to reach a fair assessment of the offender’s overall culpability in the context of the circumstances of the offence. • The court should avoid an overly mechanistic application of these factors.
A - High Culpability <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Planning of criminal activity (including the carrying of a weapon) before the loss of control • Offence committed in the context of other serious criminal activity • Use of a firearm (whether or not taken to the scene) • Loss of self-control in circumstances which only just met the criteria for a qualifying trigger – taking into account the nature and duration of the qualifying trigger • Concealment, destruction, defilement or dismemberment of the body (where not separately charged)
B - Medium Culpability: Cases falling between high and lower because: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • factors are present in high and lower which balance each other out and/or • The offender’s culpability falls between the factors as described in high and lower
C - Lower Culpability <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Qualifying trigger represented an exceptionally high degree of provocation = taking into account the nature and duration of the qualifying trigger

HARM For all cases of manslaughter the harm caused will inevitably be of the utmost seriousness. The loss of life is taken into account in the sentencing levels at step two

STEP TWO: Starting point and category range

Having determined the category at step one, the court should use the corresponding starting point to reach a sentence within the category range below. The starting point applies to all offenders irrespective of plea or previous convictions.

- Where a case does not fall squarely within a category, adjustment from the starting point may be required before adjustment for aggravating or mitigating features.

Culpability
A	B	C
Starting Point 14 years' custody Category Range 10 - 20 years' custody	Starting Point 8 years' custody Category Range 5 – 12 years' custody	Starting Point 5 years' custody Category Range 3 - 6 years' custody

Note: The table is for a single offence of manslaughter resulting in a single fatality. Where another offence or offences arise out of the same incident or facts concurrent sentences reflecting the overall criminality of offending will ordinarily be appropriate: please refer to the Offences Taken into Consideration and Totality guideline and step six of this guideline.

Below is a non-exhaustive list of additional factual elements providing the context of the offence and factors relating to the offender. Identify whether a combination of these or other relevant factors should result in any upward or downward adjustment from the sentence arrived at so far.

Care should be taken to avoid double counting factors already taken into account in assessing culpability or in the finding of a qualifying trigger

Aggravating factors

Statutory aggravating factors

- Previous convictions, having regard to a) the nature of the offence to which the conviction relates and its relevance to the current offence; and b) the time that has elapsed since the conviction
(See step five for a consideration of dangerousness)
- Offence committed whilst on bail
- Offence motivated by, or demonstrating hostility based on any of the following characteristics or presumed characteristics of the victim: religion, race, disability, sexual orientation or transgender identity

Other aggravating factors:

- History of ~~significant~~ violence or abuse towards victim by offender
- Significant mental or physical suffering caused to the deceased
- Commission of offence whilst under the influence of alcohol or drugs

- Offence involved use of a weapon
- Persistence of violence
- Other(s) put at risk of harm by the offending
- ~~Death occurred in the context of dishonesty or the pursuit of financial gain~~
- Actions after the event (including but not limited to attempts to cover up/ conceal evidence)
- Blame wrongly placed on other(s)
- Involvement of others through coercion, intimidation or exploitation
- Victim was providing a public service or performing a public duty
- Offence committed on licence or post sentence supervision or while subject to court order(s)

Factors reducing seriousness or reflecting personal mitigation

- No previous convictions or no relevant/recent convictions
- Remorse
- Intention to cause serious bodily harm rather than to kill
- History of significant violence or abuse towards the offender by the victim
- Violence initiated by the victim
- Good character and/or exemplary conduct
- Serious medical conditions requiring urgent, intensive or long-term treatment
- Age and/or lack of maturity
- Sole or primary carer for dependent relatives
- Mental disorder or learning disability

STEP THREE

Consider any factors which indicate a reduction for assistance to the prosecution

The court should take into account sections 73 and 74 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (assistance by defendants: reduction or review of sentence) and any other rule of law by virtue of which an offender may receive a discounted sentence in consequence of assistance given (or offered) to the prosecutor or investigator.

STEP FOUR

Reduction for guilty pleas

The court should take account of any potential reduction for a guilty plea in accordance with section 144 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the Guilty Plea guideline.

STEP FIVE

Dangerousness

The court should consider whether having regard to the criteria contained in Chapter 5 of Part 12 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 it would be appropriate to impose a life sentence (section 224A or section 225) or an extended sentence (section 226A). When sentencing offenders to a life sentence under these provisions, the notional determinate sentence should be used as the basis for the setting of a minimum term.

STEP SIX

Totality principle

If sentencing an offender for more than one offence, or where the offender is already serving a sentence, consider whether the total sentence is just and proportionate to the overall offending behaviour in accordance with the Offences Taken into Consideration and Totality guideline.

STEP SEVEN

Compensation and ancillary orders

In all cases the court should consider whether to make compensation and/or other ancillary orders.

Where the offence involves a firearm, an imitation firearm or an offensive weapon the court may consider the criteria in section 19 of the Serious Crime Act 2007 for the imposition of a Serious Crime Prevention Order.

STEP EIGHT

Reasons

Section 174 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 imposes a duty to give reasons for, and explain the effect of, the sentence.

STEP NINE

Consideration for time spent on bail

The court must consider whether to give credit for time spent on bail in accordance with section 240A of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.
